Pom Pom Pollen

Make pom poms to represent pollen grains that are blown in the breeze. Try throwing and catching games with them to see how far they travel in the air.

Top tip!

To make them more fluffy make sure you wrap it quite thick.

Make different coloured pom poms and string them up to make a mobile. You can also use them during sensory play with toddlers and babies.

How to:

First, put a piece of wool vertically through your child's finger and down past their wrist.

Now with lots more wool, start wrapping around your child's hand - not too tight! Keep wrapping until the bundle is thick.

Pull both ends of the first piece of wool up and through the fingers to meet at the top.
